At present Bitcoins are being produced at a rate of 25 coins per 10 minutes but there is a cap of only 21 million and the rate of production is programmed to slow down making it hard for the Bitcoins to be produced and therefore their value will automatically go up, unless there is a way to break the system and produce more at a faster rate. This, the developers believe is also a way to keep inflation down. At present, the system of mining used to produce the Bitcoins is state of the art with the highest encryption possible, on a level with government and top security agencies. It seems that everything has been thought about in relation to the Bitcoins making them more or less invincible. GW Casino offers a number of safe, easy, and reliable deposit methods.
