Craps is a casino table game, so called because in a land based casino, it is played on a specially marked, felt covered table. This game of chance can be played by up to approximately 20 players. Craps involves having each player in turn roll a pair of dice while everyone makes bets on the outcome. There is quite a variety of bet types to choose from, but all involve the player against the house. Craps is perhaps the liveliest game you'll find in a land based casino; players at a craps table may shout and yell during the game. Although the table layout can seem complicated at first, craps rules are fairly simple and the game is not difficult to learn.
