Of all the casino games, pokies take more money. In some casinos, roughly 70% of the revenues come from poker machines. These games also take a bigger percentage of your cash. Blackjack and video poker might take less than 1% of the money you wager. Baccarat and craps offer a house edge of around 1.4%, while European roulette played with "la partage" or "en prison" rules pay at 1.35% for the even-money wagers. European roulette played without the aforementioned rules pay at 2.7%, while any better besides the even-money bets pay at the same percentage while using the rules made famous in Monte Carlo. American roulette offers a 5.26% house edge.
